It doesn't say it may remove some or all. A tax exempt properties today, there is no question that they maintain full rights to those properties. There is no purchase of easement. There is no expenditure of state funds involved in any property under tax exempt status. Therefore, I have been assured and I think we have examples around the state that would bear that out that just because a property is tax exempt does not cause, in fact, does not cause any loss of property rights. In other words, the fact that you would have tax exempt status gives nobody access to your property.

SENATOR SCHMIT: Just one more question, what about lines 2 to 4 on page 4 of the bill which refer to the fact that the Legislature may limit the income from that land?

SENATOR BEREUTER: Now, Senator Schmit, let me interpret that very carefully because as a person who is interested in agriculture, you want those lines in there. What the bill says is....Mr. President, what is your advice on my answering the question?

PRESIDENT: Was the question your interpretation of certain lines?

SENATOR BEREUTER: No, Senator Schmit asked me a question and had to go to the phone. May I wait a minute?

PRESIDENT: He is not very respectful, Senator Bereuter. He is not a nice man.

SENATOR BEREUTER: May we stand at ease for one minute?

PRESIDENT: He has his priorities mixed up, Senator Bereuter. Now, Senator Bereuter, would you answer Senator Schmit's question?

SENATOR BEREUTER: Yes, I will, and to refresh us...

PRESIDENT: Would you restate the question first, Senator Bereuter?

SENATOR BEREUTER: Yes, I will restate the question. Senator Schmit makes specific reference to the words on page 4, lines 1 and 2 about income producing purposes for agriculture. What this bill does, Senator Schmit, is say that if you produce income off of these water bodies, you cannot have a tax exempt status and then it goes on to say in the last lines on page 3 and the beginning lines on page 4, provided that the use of the water for agriculture, domestic purposes is not considered to be income producing. So in other words, you can use the water impounded for agriculture and domestic purposes without jeopardizing your tax exempt status and that is exactly what we want to do. On the other hand, if you use the property for residential, commercial or industrial purposes, you do not get tax exemption. So the use of the property, to reiterate, for agriculture or for domestic purposes doesn't threaten your tax exemption.
